Rock Festivals Feature Public Lovemaking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
From the Pacific Northwest to the English Channel, thousands and thousands of youths gathered over the weekend to listen to rock music, take drugs and bask among their peers. At two concerts, the rock fans' disdain for convention included public love-making.

Despite some nude sunbathing and swimming and a heavier dose of drug-taking, the crowds appeared for the most part peaceful and happy.

The largest gathering was at the Isle of Wight off England's south coast, where nearly 200,000 fans came together for Bob Dylan's first major concert in several years. Dylan sang 14 songs in two hours to close the two-day event. He walked off the stage an hour before scheduled, ignoring the pleas of the crowd for more music.

At one point, a boy and girl stripped naked, jumped into a sea of foam that had been loosed from pressurized containers as a play area, and engaged in sexual intercourse. No move was made to stop the couple as some onlookers stared in disbelief and others applauded and screamed, "Ain't that the greatest?"

Police said they did not see the incident and could take no action unless a formal complaint was filed.

Issues were not disclosed.

A company spokesman said the strike would idle 6,000 workers at the plant, largest printing facility in the world.

Says Negroes Trying to Move Too Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says Negroes are trying to move too fast into skilled craft unions, but Secretary of Labor George L. Shultz contends that "the jobs are there. The problem is to get more of the people trained in the skills needed."

Meany, the aging patriarch of American organized labor, said Negroes and other racial minorities should follow channels by going through the craft unions' apprenticeship programs.

Shultz, however, said the apprenticeship programs have supplied "only a minority of construction trades journeymen." He said most got the top union status while "working on the job."

Meany and Shultz expressed their differing views in separate television interviews Sunday. Meany appeared on CBS Radio and Television's "Face the Nation" while Shultz was interviewed on the ABC program "Issues and Answers."

Fire Destroys House Here

Three fires were reported by the Hope Department over the weekend. A trash fire at Hopewell school did not cause any damage.

At 406 East 8th Street three rooms of a home occupied by Levert Thomas were badly damaged.

On West Avenue B, outside the city limits, a home owned by Hazel Underwood and occupied by Willie Rateliff was completely destroyed. Origin of the blaze could not be immediately determined.

Administration Would Cut Tax Reforms

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is expected to plead with the Senate this week to roll back some of the tax cuts the House voted, but isn't likely to press an argument for restoring the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance.

Treasury spokesmen have hailed the bill as a milestone, but repeatedly dropped broad hints that its tax reduction clauses—which would by 1972 cost the Treasury $2.4 billion a year—would be most unwelcome in their fight against inflation.

The keystone of the inflation-control program is the attempt to reduce the amount of money in circulation, which the current 10 per cent income surtax does. Tax cuts would be a move in the opposite direction.

Empowered With Role in Episcopal Church Black Youths Riot

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Empowered with a new role in the Episcopal Church's governing process, insurgent youths and blacks today sharpened their tactics for using it—so far in jolting style.

"The church has got to start listening to the people who know where it's at," said Everett Hogg of Blacksburg, Va., a leader of the National Episcopal Student Committee that pressed for new influence in the church.

Sunday night, shortly after the convention acted to widen participation in church government by restive factions of blacks, women and youth, some of them seized the floor to denounce the scheduled agenda.

Shouts of "throw them out" and "turn them off" arose among the 1,000 delegates in Notre Dame University's Convocation Center. Others in the youth section urged on the demonstrators, yelling: "Tell it true!"

About 20 white youths and blacks—most of them barefooted—mounted the stage. Mohammad Kenyatta of Philadelphia grabbed the microphone, cutting off a church officer present-

Military in Brazil Takes Over Nation

By GEORGE ARFELD
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's military chiefs set aside the constitution Sunday night and took over President Arthur da Costa e Silva's powers after he suffered a stroke.

The move, announced by the new military triumvirate as temporary, bypassed Vice President Pedro Aleixo, designated by the constitution to exercise the presidential powers if the president could not carry them out. But Aleixo is a civilian, and it was reported in advance that the military would not let him take over.

A joint communique issued by the army, navy and air force said the Junta's rule would be "limited to the period of rest and treatment which the chief executive is undergoing."

Costa e Silva was to have announced a constitutional reform measure this week which would have restored a semblance of representative government. He dismissed Congress last Dec. 13 and has ruled by decree since then.

Since Costa e Silva was himself a military man and the military's choice for the presidency, Brazilians generally interpreted his replacement as just a change of faces in the military regime. No disturbances were reported, and the people instead were celebrating their national soccer team's victory Sunday over Paraguay's team, which put Brazil in the World Cup finals in Mexico next year.

The junta is made up of the ministers of the army, air force and navy. They are Gen. Aurelio Lyra Tavares, 63, who fought the Germans in Italy and served

Rotary Takes Senic Trip via Film

The Hope Rotary Club took a scenic highway tour of Arkansas last Friday with the help of John M. Gray, photographer for the Arkansas State Highway Department. At the weekly luncheon of the club in the Town and Country, Mr. Gray showed color pictures of many of the beautiful areas of the state with emphasis on the good highways and bridges. Devil Fairchild arranged for the program and introduced the guest.

During the business meeting President Benny Coleman read a note of appreciation from the Gulfport, Miss., Rotary Club for money sent them after the recent disaster. Anyone wishing to make a contribution to help the club should contact Roy Anderson.

Visiting Rotarians at the luncheon meeting were Wylie Butler of Texarkana and Tom Cox of Nashville.

Women to Be Released by Syria

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Syrian government says it is releasing the four Israeli women who were aboard an American airliner hijacked to Damascus by two Arabs, but it is apparently holding onto the two Israeli men who were among the passengers.

The government said it was making arrangements to have the women flown to Rome.

The Israeli government warned it was holding Syria responsible for the fate of the Israelis and said it insisted on their unconditional release. There was speculation that the Syrians might try to trade the two men for Syrian prisoners in Israel.

The other 95 passengers and the 12 crew members from the Trans World Airlines jet were released Saturday and most of them flew to Athens or Rome aboard a special Italian airliner. TWA said the pilot, Capt. Dean Carter, would remain in Damascus until the Israelis are released.

Announcing the release of the Israeli women, the Syrian government said investigation of them is over. It made no mention of the two men, reported being held in Damascus.

The other passengers still in Damascus were a Filipino-American, Mrs. Caridad Schaller of Leonardtown, Md., who broke a leg jumping out of the plane, and her four children. A cast was put on the woman's leg, and she planned to continue her journey soon to the Far East to visit her parents.

Capt. Carter and a TWA engineer were giving the plane an extensive checkup. Its front section was ripped open shortly after it landed by a bomb set by the hijackers.

The Arab man and woman who commandeered the airliner Friday shortly after it left Rome apparently were still in custody in Damascus, although Syrian officials gave no information about them.

The couple belongs to the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab guerrilla group that specializes in headline-making attacks outside Israel. The first of the hijackers wanted to capture an Israeli responsible for inflicting anguish on many Palestinians. Later it said the Israelis aboard the plane would be held as hostages for "Syrian comrades in Israeli torture prisons."

In Paris, the president of the International Federation of Airline Pilots Association, Ola Forsberg, said his organization was considering a 12-hour or 24-hour strike by airline pilots

Hurricane Francella Is Growing

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Francella was reorganizing today as it moved over the warm waters of the northwestern Caribbean on a slow, drifting course that gave no indication of where, or when, it would go ashore.

"We can't say what course Francella will take or what its intensity will become," said Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center. "Francella is like a powder keg with a damp fuse." Dr. Simpson said, "The fuse may sputter out. Or the keg may blow up in our face."

Early today the storm's center was about 675 miles south of Miami and 220 miles east-northeast of Jamaica, and was moving westward at about 10 miles per hour. Top winds were estimated at 75 m.p.h., minimal for a hurricane.

Although the storm's course was uncertain, offshore oil rigs on the Louisiana coast began a routine shutdown Sunday. Work boats, still bedecked with banners and bunting, pulled out of the annual Louisiana Shrimp and Petroleum Festival at Morgan City to report to the offshore rigs in the Gulf of Mexico.

Francella is the sixth major storm of the current Atlantic hurricane season.

Governors Looking to Federal Treasury for Relief From Demands AP News Digest

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Beseled by soaring state tax demands, the nation's governors are looking to the federal treasury for relief, while reporting that President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan won't provide enough money to even dent their budget problems.

And a new proposal was gathering support at the 61st National Governors' Conference today — a suggestion that the federal government take over the entire cost of U.S. welfare programs.

The welfare proposal came from a panel of governors headed by Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Gov. Robert E. McNair, chairman of the caucus of Democratic governors, said the plan is "in general what we have been proposing for some time."

Federal revenue sharing is in the same category—the governors have been urging it upon Congress for five years. President Nixon has recommended

Army Seizes Control of Libya

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The army took control of the oil-rich Arab kingdom of Libya today and declared it a republic, Benghazi Radio announced. The revolt came while Libya's 79-year-old king, Idris I, was vacationing in Turkey. He had maintained firm control of the North African country since it became independent in 1950.

All airports and ports were closed and a curfew imposed, the Libyan radio announced.

The U.S. Embassy in Tripoli reported a Radio Libya broadcast which said the army would be responsible for the protection of all foreigners in the country. The broadcast called the revolt "a purely internal matter" and said it "is not aimed at any country or agreement."

The radio said the army had assumed control of the country to rid it of "reactionary and corrupt elements."

Telephone and cable service in and out of Libya was suspended.

Once one of the most backward countries in North Africa, Libya in the past 10 years has been propelled into the jet age by oil discoveries which now provide the government about a billion dollars a year. More than

Base Camp Turned Over to Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command today turned over an infantry division base camp to the South Vietnamese army for the first time in the war and announced that American operations at the big Nha Trang Air Base are being significantly reduced.

The command also reported that American troop strength in Vietnam has dropped to 511,000, the lowest in 18 months, as a result of the withdrawal of 25,000 U.S. troops announced by President Nixon last June 8. The last of the 25,000 troops left Thursday.

U.S. military spokesmen said the turnover of the infantry division base camp and the reduction of American activities at Nha Trang were part of the program to "Vietnamize the war effort," meaning to shift more of the war burden to the South Vietnamese armed forces.

The base camp had been the headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division and is at Dong Tam, in the Mekong Delta, 40 miles southwest of Saigon. It was turned over to the Army of the Republic of Vietnam in a ceremony today attended by top-ranking generals.

Two brigades of the U.S. 9th Division and its headquarters were withdrawn from Vietnam under Nixon's 25,000-man cut-back. The division's 3rd Brigade is now under the operational control of the 25th Infantry Division.

Military sources said the U.S. Command also has sharply cut B52 bombing attacks in Laos and is concentrating almost entirely on North Vietnamese bases and staging areas in South Vietnam.

About 95 per cent of the 1,400 B52 sorties flown during August hit North Vietnamese positions in South Vietnam in an attempt to blunt the Communist command's fall campaign, the sources said. The other five per cent were aimed at North Vietnamese infiltration and supply routes through Laos.

During the past 24 hours, some 50 of the big bombers kept up a round-the-clock saturation of infiltration corridors northwest and northeast of Saigon. The aim was to keep elements of four North Vietnamese divisions from taking positions for a new round of assaults.

Allied intelligence officers anticipate another "high point" in the enemy's fall campaign to coincide with North Vietnam's independence day anniversary Tuesday.

Two small but fierce fights flared in Tay Ninh Sunday in War Zone C, a long time base of the North Vietnamese 1st Division 65 miles northwest of Saigon. Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported killing 28 North Vietnamese; four Americans were killed and three wounded.

Becker, in a Labor Day message, attacked the convention for including the so-called right-to-work law in the proposed new document. He said that after 25 years the measure has "proved to be a monumental failure and has only served to disrupt responsible labor-management relations and promoted poverty."

He said that if labor supported a constitution with the provision it would amount to a "left-handed endorsement" and would "confirm that Arkansas trades in cheap wages and human misery."

Becker also said that the convention's alteration of the provision limiting interest rates removed the 10 per cent limit "for all practical purposes."

He said the convention had demonstrated a "public-badness attitude" by the action.

Nixon to Be Asked About Ending War

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Gov. Robert E. McNair of South Carolina says the nation's Democratic governors want to know what President Nixon is doing to carry out his campaign pledge to end the Vietnam war.

McNair said 17 of the 20 Democratic governors, meeting here in conjunction with the 61st National Governors' Conference, discussed the decreasing public attention to the Vietnam question at a meeting Sunday and plan to talk about it more at a luncheon session Tuesday.

The governors also discussed their diminishing role in national Democratic party affairs, expressed concern at domination by prominent U.S. senators but failed to reach any conclusions, on how to play a bigger part.

McNair told reporters that the governors discussed "what was being done to end the war and what was being done to carry out the campaign commitments that were made when the President was a candidate."

"We find there is talk about troop withdrawals," he said, "but apparently nothing very significant done. There is talk of a decline in the fighting, and yet there was an increase in it."

The South Carolina executive said he knew of no plans for any Democrat to bring the war issue before the conference.

McNair and Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut said they thought the national party organization should pay more attention to the governors.

"We have a vital role to play and are most anxious to play it," Dempsey said. "We think governors should play a more prominent role in party affairs," McNair said.

Elsewhere, there were these developments in the Israeli-Arab crisis:

President Nureddin Atassi of Syria arrived in Cairo for a small summit meeting with President Gamal Abdel Nasser, King Hussein of Jordan and President Ahmed Hassan Bakr of Iraq. Their four countries fought the 1967 war with Israel.

Thousands of Iraqi businessmen and tourists left Lebanon by plane or road, complying with an order from Baghdad Saturday for all Iraqis to leave Lebanon within 24 hours. The Iraqi government was angered by attacks on it in the Lebanese press and hoped to cut Lebanon's tourist take.

Pope Paul VI likened recent events in the Middle East to "the ill-omened symptoms which preceded . . . the explosion of the Second World War." He pleaded with the governments and the people of the area to make every effort to avoid "the first uncautious steps" toward war.

that a limited, but increasing, portion of federal tax receipts be turned back to the states.

The idea was generally applauded, but the sums involved were not. Gov. Frank Licht, D-R.I., called the Nixon plan "a token gesture."

"I suspect it will be like it is with all our programs," said Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington, a Democrat and the conference chairman, "There just never seems to be enough money."

A committee of governors headed by Republican Dan Evans of Washington recommended another endorsement of the revenue-splitting system, without recommending a specific federal contribution to the states. The Nixon plan would boost the shared revenue total to $5 billion in five years.

Debate is likely to center on Nixon's proposal to initiate such a system with a $500 million stipend for the states next year.

Nixon addresses the governors tonight, and the White House said he would deal with domestic matters. That, presumably, means welfare, revenues and the programs the President calls "new federalism."

Rockefeller's welfare proposal, which faces a conference vote Tuesday, goes far beyond the program recommended by Nixon. The New York governor advocated a federal takeover of welfare programs over a five-year period, at a cost of about $15 billion, compared with Nixon's $5 billion plan to set a federal floor for welfare payments.

he became the country's seventh president in a decade in March 1967. His term expires in 1971.

New Head of Administration Department

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has appointed Dr. Max Milam, associate professor and chairman of the Political Science Department at the University of Arkansas, to succeed Clarence G. "Mike" Frost as director of the state Administration Department.

Frost's resignation becomes effective Sept. 15.

Rockefeller also announced Saturday that he had appointed Dr. John M. Peterson director of the Arkansas Planning Commission and Mrs. Leona Troxell as administrator of the Employment Security Division.

He is making a Labor Day journey to attend a reception and dinner of the National Governors' Conference and to speak at their annual ball tonight.

On the 10-hour visit to Colorado, the President goes first for a look at the underground control center of the North Atlantic Air Defense Command (NORAD), built inside nearby Cheyenne Mountain.

The United States and Canada have a 10-year joint treaty under which NORAD guards against long-range bombing attacks.

While he is inspecting NORAD, Mrs. Nixon remains at the Broadmoor Hotel, headquarters of the governors' conference.

Nixon was to speak at the black tie ball at the International Center at about 9:30 p.m. MDT, outlining his domestic policies and projects before governors and their wives.

The governors' conference this year has a 30-20 Republican majority and Nixon may find it a good test of the popularity of his proposed programs.

The trip was the only official activity for the President over the three-day holiday weekend.

Nixon skipped church Sunday for the fourth weekend in a row here.

He swam, at Sands Beach on the nearby Camp Pendleton Marine Base, and he spent Saturday evening at the Los Angeles Rams-San Diego Chargers professional football game in San Diego with his longtime Florida friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

A half-dozen persons seeking an end to the Vietnam war and the income tax surcharge presented a petition Sunday afternoon at the Western White House gate.

Labor Day Is Birthday of Labor Leader

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — This Labor Day also is the 62nd birthday of one of organized labor's best-known advocates, Walter P. Reuther.

The chief of the 1.7 million-member United Auto Workers looked back on 33 years of labor campaigning recently while driving down Detroit's Michigan Ave., home of Cadillac's plant and many noisy little factories that stamp and grind out pieces for automobiles.

"It was right up there over the drug store that we opened our first office, with a second-hand typewriter and a beat-up mimeograph machine," he recalled. "I borrowed $300 from a personal friend to pay three months' rent."

"My wife got two weeks' leave from school teaching to act as secretary. She never went back to teaching."

The venture also ended Reuther's career as a tool and die maker.

"We had amalgamated five west side locals," he said. "I was president. We had a grand total of 78 members. But in just nine months we had more than 30,000 in 42 plants."

That 1936-37 organizing spurge lifted him to the fledgling international union's executive board in 1937. He bounded to the UAW vice presidency in 1942 and wrested the presidency from R. J. Thomas in 1946. He has won re-election every two years since.

Farther on, passing Ford's gigantic Rouge complex, where Reuther's head was cracked in the 1937 "Battle of the Overpass" between company men and union organizers, he was looking to the future again.

The UAW constitution makes retirement mandatory at 65, but Reuther said:

"That's down the road a piece yet. But when it comes, 'my wife won't be complaining about my being under foot all the time."

"I could be busier than ever. I'm going to devote my time to community projects, housing, medical care, retired workers, young people and the UN."

Some complain Reuther already devotes more time to these projects than to union business, to which his reply has been: "This union's objectives aren't limited to another nickel in the pay envelope."

Domestic Issues to Be Discussed

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon joins the nation's governors at Colorado Springs, Colo. today to talk about such pressing domestic questions as welfare payments and sharing federal revenues with the states.

He is making a Labor Day journey to attend a reception and dinner of the National Governors' Conference and to speak at their annual ball tonight.

On the 10-hour visit to Colorado, the President goes first for a look at the underground control center of the North Atlantic Air Defense Command (NORAD), built inside nearby Cheyenne Mountain.

The United States and Canada have a 10-year joint treaty under which NORAD guards against long-range bombing attacks.

While he is inspecting NORAD, Mrs. Nixon remains at the Broadmoor Hotel, headquarters of the governors' conference.

Nixon was to speak at the black tie ball at the International Center at about 9:30 p.m. MDT, outlining his domestic policies and projects before governors and their wives.

The trip was the only official activity for the President over the three-day holiday weekend.

Nixon skipped church Sunday for the fourth weekend in a row here.

He swam, at Sands Beach on the nearby Camp Pendleton Marine Base, and he spent Saturday evening at the Los Angeles Rams-San Diego Chargers professional football game in San Diego with his longtime Florida friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

A half-dozen persons seeking an end to the Vietnam war and the income tax surcharge presented a petition Sunday afternoon at the Western White House gate.

Boat, Iceberg Hit, 3 Die

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Three persons were killed when a fishing boat struck an iceberg near Sumdum Glacier 40 miles south of Juneau, the Coast Guard said Sunday. Two others were found aboard a life raft.

Stray Bullet Triggers Riots and Looting

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A drag race and a stray bullet that hit a woman in the face triggered looting, rock-throwing and fire bombings Sunday night in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Hospitals said 13 persons were injured. Most were hurt by rocks or glass shards. Few required more than first aid.

Maj. Thomas Atkinson of the Broward County Sheriff's department reported 15 to 20 arrests.

Atkinson said the violence erupted about 7:30 p.m. when sheriff's deputies broke up a drag race. A crowd gathered and a bullet in the face felled 43-year-old Millie Adams. Rumors circulated that the deputy had wounded Mrs. Adams, but authorities said a sniper fired the shot.

In two unrelated incidents, whites, reported Negroes rescued them from unruly blacks.

Gertrude Bell said she was driving her 80-year-old husband, Frank, when their car was stopped with a barrage of rocks and bottles. Bell lost his right eye when he was struck by a thrown object.

Mrs. Bell, her blue print cotton dress drenched with blood from scalp cuts, said a Negro man "came out of the crowd and told me to move over. He got in our car and drove us to the hospital." The man disappeared at the hospital.

Cynthia Klees and her mother were driving through the area when their car was surrounded. Miss Klees, who is 16, said two Negro men broke up the group, shouting: "Leave these ladies alone." Miss Klees was treated for a cut on the knee and released from the hospital.

Bernadette Forges Link of Friendship

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — It's a long, long way from the barricades of the Bogside to the carefully trimmed hedges that protect the estates of the wealthy here, but Bernadette Devlin has forged a link of friendship between them.

Northern Ireland's elfin emissary appealed to the moneyed at this summer resort Sunday to open their purses for Roman Catholics left homeless and destitute by the disorders in her country.

While bagpipes skirled and cocktail glasses clinked, Miss Devlin, 22, stood in the garden of an estate owned by State Assemblyman Andrew Stein and asked for help.

"We must finally free outpeople," she told the Pucci-clad women and bellbottom-bedecked men, "and for that we need your assistance."

Miss Devlin, youngest member of the British House of Commons, arrived in the United States Aug. 21 to raise $1 million and plead her countrymen's cause. Two Protestant parliamentarians arrived in this country Friday to counter her campaign.

During Sunday's party, young girls circulated among the 200 guests, collecting cash, checks and pledged cards. Stein said the total would not be determined until later in the week, but people seemed to be giving freely.

Miss Devlin traveled to and from the estate—about 100 miles from New York City—by helicopter and spent about 2½ hours at the party.

At a brief news conference she repeated her promise that the money collected would go for relief work, not guns.

"If I wanted money for guns," she said, sounding hoarse and tired, "I would ask for money for guns."

She said the funds would be turned over to the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association, headed by Frank Gogarty, who arrived in New York City Sunday afternoon.

40 U.S. and European countries are at work in the country, and since the Suez Canal was closed by the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, Libya has been one of Western Europe's chief oil sources.

Associated Press Correspondent Allan Jakes reported from Libya in May that the vast new wealth pouring into the country had created a "new moneyed class who . . . spend freely and not always wisely." But he said so far they had kept away from government and had little political influence.

King Idris is childless and designated a nephew, 35-year-old Hassan el-Rida, as crown prince. But the monarch has given him no opportunity to display political or executive abilities.

There was no word of the prince's whereabouts.

Libya's policies have been mainly pro-Western, and it allowed the United States and Britain to maintain military bases on its territory despite nationalist pressure to kick them out.

The government last year ordered a $240 million air defense system from Britain, including high- and low-level antiaircraft missiles.

Into the early hours, they met on the lawn of the Roman Catholic campus to plan new moves for pushing their positions against the draft and the Vietnam war, and for greater experimental freedom in worship.

The 3.6 million-member church, trying to cope with rising internal pressures, acted Sunday for the first time in more than a century to shelve its usual legislative procedures to give a special voice and vote to the dissatisfied groups.

Bishop David R. Thornberry of Wyoming said the aim was to allow "all the elements in the church to share in the work."

Says Brewster Received Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Daniel B. Brewster allegedly received $30,000 in contributions from the Seafarers' International Union while working for legislation to make the Federal Maritime Commission an independent agency, the Washington Post reported today.

Brewster, a Maryland Democrat, allegedly received the money in 1967 and 1968, the newspaper said in a copyrighted money in 1967 and 1968, the for re-election by Republican Charles Mc Mathias.

The contributions are under investigation by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents who also are gathering information on allegations that Brewster and Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., got bribes to influence a contract for a Washington parking garage, the Post said.

The newspaper also said Brewster is under investigation by a federal grand jury in Baltimore on allegations he received money from so-called "junk mail" firms to fight against postal rate increases.

Brewster, reportedly in Ireland, was unavailable for comment. Long, commenting on the allegation at a news conference in Baton Rouge Saturday, said it was a "cock and bull" story.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Leg- end has it that the short-cut to Hollywood stardom was to be discovered sipping a soda at a drug-store counter or to catch a sumi Sakai; and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Turner.

Today, however, the best spot — for a man, anyway — is on the playing fields of the nation.

Talent scouts on the prowl for new TV faces are more likely to attend football games than dramatic school graduations. Joe Namath leaped from the grid-iron to full-fledged movie star billing. Peggy Fleming pirouetted from an Olympic ice rink right into her own TV special.

In a single day, the three networks announced: O.J. Simpson will make his dramatic debut playing an ailing athlete in CBS' "Medical Center"; Rosey Grier had been elevated to co-star status playing Daniel Boone's sidekick on NBC; Deacon Jones of the Los Angeles Rams would take the plunge in an episode of ABC's "Be- witched"; Don Drysdale and Dodger outfielder Willie Davis will be actors in a "Flying Nun" show.

There may be life in some old shows that were believed to be long dead. Now that "What's My Line" is heading into its second season of syndication, it will be joined by a new version of "To Tell the Truth."

The revival vogue is digging deeper in the old files. "Stump the Stars" — in TV's early days known as "Pantomime Quiz" — is coming back. Morey Amsterdam is involved in a TV return of the old joke show, "Can You Top This?" And there is even a project aimed to convert radio's old "Mr. Keen, Famous Tracer of Lost Persons" into a television series.

A television special will correct, after decades, the billing of one of the world's great musicians. A printer misspelled Rubenstein's first name "Artur." Others copied it.

But when NBC's 90-minute special is broadcast Sept. 5, the mistake will be corrected. The name of the show is "Arthur Rubenstein," and its owner is happy to have the "h" back in his name.

Jimmy Durante qualifies as the dean of the 1969-70 assortment of performers who will be launched soon as stars of new series. Durante, after 59 years of entertaining and three previous television series, will return with ABC's "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters Hour" which has got to be the worst show title in his experience. He will be 76, as spry, funny and engaging as ever.

A MONUMENT to the free spirit. This gigantic, five-story floating sculpture being constructed by Michael Borash, 21, stands out in a picturesque houseboat community on San Francisco Bay. The houseboat dwellers, who number about 600 persons, are facing eviction proceedings brought against them by the government unit which has authority over the area.

Fame Drove Faye To the Couch

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)

I stopped in at CBS to watch the revolution—Jim Nabors and his gang doing their new show, a musical variety program.

"I think we're doing pretty good," said Frank Sutton, chomping on his usual big cigar. "That's pretty good compared to where we were three weeks ago—which was in a hole."

Jim himself seems happy and relaxed, but then he always seems happy and relaxed. He and coproducer Bruce Johnson said their aim is to hang onto all those good old Gomer Pyle fans.

"It's Jim's show all the way," Johnson said. "He has to O.K. all the guest stars. They must be people he likes and feels comfortable with."

Success? Sure, it's heady stuff. But it takes some getting used to.

Faye Dunaway worked with Dustin Hoffman in "Little Big Man" for director Arthur Penn. She talked about success. She said she had thought it would bring happiness.

"What it brought was misery. I was crying all the time. It was success that drove me to psychoanalysis. And that straightened me out."

She says success brings its own penalties—chief among which is the realization that the adulation you get doesn't belong to you but to some image of you the public creates. "Another penalty is alienation," she says. "Dusty and I were talking about that. Suddenly it is difficult to communicate with old friends in the old way, because now you're a star and they think you've changed or something. And with new people, you become suspicious."

The problems of success. Nobody would trade them for the problems of failure.

Mark Rydell, director. He's putting the finishing editorial changes into "The Reivers" now. He's doing it slowly, because it is important to him. He waited 18 months for the job.

Rydell, another of the actors-turned-directors, had his first assignment with "The Fox," the Sandy Dennis-Anne Heywood film that was the tasteful forerunner of some tasteless films.

"That was a turning point in my life," Rydell says. "I practically did it for nothing, but I really would have done it for nothing, just to have a chance at directing a good film."

It was a good film. And the industry knew it. They gave him lots of chances after that. He says he had 41 offers but waited 18 months until he was offered Steve McQueen and "The Reivers."

"I marry very slowly," he says. "I didn't get married myself until I was 33 and it's the same in picking a film to do. I know if I pick something I'm really not enthusiastic about, in a few weeks I'll be bored and fall asleep at my desk."

He and McQueen got along fine. It wasn't that way with Raymond Stross, who produced "The Fox." Rydell calls him "a vulgarian," says he tried to make "The Fox" "cheap and sensational," says he fought him every day and wound up barring him from the set.

Rydell and his old friend, Sydney Pollock, who directed "Castle Keep," have formed a new company. They've named it Sanford Productions, after Sanford Meisner, the head of the Neighborhood Playhouse, where they started to act, along with McQueen and Joanne Woodward.

Prefabricated Will

Whether you are aware of it or not, a "will" has already been prepared for you. Known as the "statute of descent and distribution," it is a plan drawn up by your state legislature, to be used after your death in case you fail to make will of your own.

How does this prefabricated will divide up your estate? Generally speaking, it follows a kind of law of averages, dividing things up the way an average person probably would.

In theory, that makes sense. But in practice, the use of cut-and-dried rules can have some startling consequences. For example:

In one case, a youth who murdered his father was held entitled to his estate. Under the state statute (since changed), a son's rights were automatic—no one having thought about the possibility of murder.

In another case, a woman was awarded her husband's estate even though she was living in adultery at the time of his death. To outraged objections by his relatives, the court replied:

"It is unnecessary to discuss wisdom or morality. It is sufficient that the legislature has declared the rules by which the rights of the parties must be determined."

True, these are extreme cases. But the prefabricated will also works out badly in many everyday circumstances. Take the situation when a man dies, leaving small children and only a modest estate.

In most "statutes," if he has not made a will of his own, only part of his estate would go to the widow—the balance going directly to the children. For the widow, this could mean years of going through court procedures, for permission to spend the children's money on the ordinary expenses of life.

The trouble is not that the law-makers, in drawing up the prefabricated will, don't try to be fair. Rather, the trouble is that they cannot possibly foresee the particular needs of each individual family.

They cannot know, for instance, that one of your children needs more protection than the others, or that you would like to make a grateful bequest to an old friend, or that you want to lend your support to a favorite charity.

No prefabricated will can possibly take account of such things. In fact, nobody can but you.

"OPEN WITH CARE" ON PARKING LOT.

Dear Helen: Please stress again how much damage careless car door openers do on parking lots. Maybe I "steal space," as one of your male writers complained, but I always park over the yellow line, if possible, when I go shopping at the supermarket. This, ever since BOTH our new car doors got dented by thoughtless drivers who didn't watch when they opened their doors.

As long as parking spaces are painted, so close together, I'll continue to use one and one-half. Or maybe if enough people like you publicize the problem, people will start opening their doors with more care.—Mrs. C. Dear Mrs. C.: "Parking Lot Etiquette" should be included in every driver training course. It might also help if cars came equipped with little signs on each door: "Open With Care!" Better yet, if all cars had soft rubber or plastic door liners, diagonal parking would be less hazardous. Detroit, take note!—H.

Willie Davis Extends His Hit Streak

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Wondrous Willie Davis has started choking up ... with some rather spectacular results.

The San Francisco Giants and New York Mets also did a little choking— with equally spectacular results on the National League title chase.

Davis extended his major league-leading hitting streak to 28 games Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers checked Philadelphia 4-1.

The Giants, meanwhile, dropped their second straight game to the New York Mets, 8-0, before salvaging an 11-inning 3-2 victory and a doubleheader split, thanks to four straight erratic pitches.

The Dodger victory, combined with the Giant-Met split, Chicago's 8-4 victory over Atlanta and Cincinnati's 7-5 conquest of St. Louis, threw the NL West's already dizzy pennant race into another upheaval.

The end result was this: Cincinnati moved from second to first, but just .002 percentage points ahead of the Giants. Los Angeles remained third, but only 1/2 game and .004 percentage points back of the Reds. Atlanta is only two games away from the leader.

In the NL East, the Cubs boosted back to four games their lead over the Mets.

In other NL activity, Pittsburgh defeated Houston 6-4 and San Diego whipped Montreal 5-2 before losing the second game of a doubleheader 6-1.

In the American League, Minnesota stopped Boston 6-2, Chicago nipped Cleveland 7-6, Baltimore edged California 5-4, New York topped Kansas City 5-3, Washington polished off Oakland 8-3 and Detroit whipped Seattle 7-2.

Davis' single was far from spectacular—it was a liner that bounced off second base into right center field in the fourth—but it put the veteran outfielder just one game shy of tying the all-time Dodger record set by Zack Wheat in 1916.

Willie credits a lot of things for the streak, which has boosted his average some 50 points to the .320 range since the All-Star break.

But, he said, four of the main reasons are that he's now choking up about four inches on the bat, he's switched from a 30-ounce to a 40-ounce club, he's standing farther back from the plate and "I've cut down on my swing."

Bill Singer, 17-8, scattered six hits and Willie Crawford hit a solo homer in the Dodger triumph.

Tom Seaver struck out 11 and scattered seven hits in becoming the NL's first 19-game winner as the Mets took the opener from the Giants. The triumph equals the Mets' club record for most victories in one season.

But, San Francisco won the nightcap when relief pitcher Ron Taylor issued four straight balls to Jim Davenport, with the bases loaded in the 11th inning, forcing home the clincher.

The Mets slammed 12 hits in the opener, and put it away with a five-run fourth inning when Ron Swoboda cracked a bases-loaded double, Jerry Grote singled in two more and Seaver singled in another.

The Giants grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap when Don Mason singled, Ken Henderson tripled and Jim Hart singled before an out was registered.

However, Jim McAndrew tamed the Giants after that, yielding only three more hits and retiring 13 in a row during one stretch, before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

The Mets tied it 2-2 on Swoboda's one-out homer with a man on in the sixth.

In the 11th, reliever Tug McGraw walked Bob Burda and Willie McCovey followed with a single before Taylor came on.

The runners advanced on a wild pitch before an intentional pass to Bobby Bonds set the stage for Taylor's four out-key tosses.

Johnny Bench's 22nd homer of the season started off a five-run second inning that carried Cincinnati to victory. Bobby Tolan had a two-run double and Alex Johnson and Pete Rose each singled in runs during the big inning.

Mike Shannon, No. 11, and Curt Flood, No. 3, homered for the Cards.

Ken Holtzman drove in three runs and hit the first homer of his career in helping himself to his 16th victory as the Cubs subdued Atlanta.

Holtzman hurled a no-hitter against the Braves Aug. 19, and he didn't allow a hit this time for the first 4 1/3 innings, although he tired and had to be relieved by Phil Regan in the final inning.

Holtzman hit a two-run homer in the sixth and a run-scoring single in the eighth. Billy Williams also connected for the Cubs, his 15th, while Rico Carty had a solo blast for the Braves, No. 11.

Willie Stargell doubled in two runs and Al Oliver hit a solo homer in a four-run ninth inning that gave Pittsburgh a come-from-behind victory over the Astros.

Rookie Steve Renko checked San Diego on five hits as Montreal won the nightcap after Nate Colbert hit a three-run homer to key a four-run sixth that guided the Padres to victory in the opener.

Pro Football Exciting in First Games

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
If pre-season play is any indication, pro football is in for an exciting year, and if pre-season attendance is an omen, you better have a season ticket or start standing in line right now.

Defensive back Dave Grayson and receiver Charles Frazier were in mid-season form Sunday as the full 13-game exhibition schedule, which started Thursday, was concluded.

Grayson set up two touchdowns with interceptions as Oakland of the American Football League beat National Football League San Francisco 42-28. Frazier made two dazzling passcatches for touchdowns as Boston took Denver 26-10 in an AFL game at Jacksonville, Fla.

And the fans showed they are ready. The 13 games at 12 sites—there was a doubleheader at Cleveland drew a record 587,800, surpassing the old mark of 502,919 for the same weekend last year. So far, exhibitions have drawn 2,327,547 fans, and with 19 games left, the sport is headed for its first 3 million pre-season attendance. It's a cinch the record of 2,583,538 set last year will fall.

In that doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday, NFL Chicago beat AFL Buffalo 23-16 and NFL Green Bay topped NFL Cleveland 27-17.

In other Saturday action, unbeaten Baltimore of the FL won its fifth with a 23-10 conquest of AFL Miami, the AFL New York Jets downed NFL Minnesota 24-21, Philadelphia beat the New York Giants 24-17 in an NFL contest, NFL Detroit nipped NFL Washington 21-20, New Orleans topped Atlanta 21-17 in another NFL game and Cincinnati of the AFL upended NFL Pittsburgh 23-13.

With the game at Oakland tied 28-28 in the fourth quarter Grayson intercepted a pass by San Francisco's John Brodie, who threw for four touchdowns, and dashed about 50 yards to the San Francisco seven-yard line.

Oakland went ahead when George Zlanda passed to Warren Wells in the end zone. A short time later, Grayson picked off another pass and took the ball to the 49er 14. This time the touchdown came on a 12-yard toss from Blanda to Wells.

Daryle Lamoneka, who was shaken up in the third period, passed for a touchdown and ran for another. Blanda also passed for a third touchdown, threw for a two-point conversion and kicked two field goals.

Frazier hauled in a 47-yard touchdown pass from Mike Talaferro in the first quarter and then gathered in a 43-yard scoring strike from Talaferro in the third. Jim Nance ran for a third Boston touchdown and Cino Cappelletti kicked a pair of field goals. Pete Liske passed for a touchdown and Bob Howfield kicked a field goal for Denver.

Chicago was led past Buffalo by Mac Percival, who kicked five field goals. Green Bay broke a 14-14 halftime tie with two third-quarter field goals by Mike Mercer and went on to beat Cleveland.

Johnny Unitas continued to look good for Baltimore, hitting on 19 of 28 passes for 280 yards, including a touchdown pass to Jimmy Orr, against Miami.

The world champion Jets built up a 24-7 lead over Minnesota as Joe Namath threw for two touchdowns, one a 86-yarder to Don Maynard, then held on to beat the Vikings. Namath completed 13 of 24 for 219 yards in three quarters.

A 62-yard touchdown pass to Harold Jackson and one of 14 yards to Fred Hill, both by Norm Snead, brought Philadelphia from behind in the last quarter against the Giants.

The big play in Detroit's one-point victory over Washington was Lem Barney's 75-yard touchdown run following a blocked field goal attempt.

New Orleans pulled out its victory over Atlanta when rookie quarterback Edd Hargett passed for two touchdowns in the last six minutes.

Cincinnati also counted on a rookie quarterback for its victory over Pittsburgh.

Twins Climb as Oakland Drops Game

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
For the Oakland Athletics, the September Song starts on a sad note. As they turn into the final month of the baseball season, the A's find themselves a fat 4 1/2 games back of Minnesota in the American League's West Division race.

Oakland dropped its fifth game in the last six starts Sunday, absorbing an 8-3 beating from Washington that featured four Senator homers including Frank Howard's 42nd of the season.

"The home runs are killing us," moaned manager Hank Bauer. "That makes 129 our pitchers have given up to 118 that we've hit."

The Twins took advantage of Oakland's loss to add a full game to their lead by whipping Boston 6-2. In other AL games Sunday, Chicago overtook Cleveland 7-6, Detroit ripped Seattle 7-2, New York tripped Kansas City 5-3 and Baltimore dropped California 5-4.

In the National League, Chicago downed Atlanta 8-4, Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 4-1, Pittsburgh dumped Houston 6-4, Cincinnati downed St. Louis 7-6, New York clubbed San Francisco 8-0 in the first game of their doubleheader and then lost 3-2 in 11 innings, and San Diego dumped Montreal 5-2 in their opener and then lost 6-1.

Mike Epstein, Ken McMullen and Bernie Allen hit the other Washington homers as the Senators scored their second straight lopsided victory over the Athletics.

Howard's No. 42 left him three back of Oakland's Reggie Jackson, the major league leader. Howard said he'd need a hot 10 days to overtake and stay ahead of Jackson.

Jim Perry won his 17th game for the Twins while Ted Uhlaender and Harmon Killebrew supplied the power with home runs as the Twins tripped Boston.

Uhlaender unloaded a three-run shot in the third inning and then Killebrew, the major league's runs batted in leader with 116, followed with his 38th homer of the year.

Don Pavletich ripped three hits and drove in three runs, helping Chicago past Cleveland. Pavletich's ninth inning single drove in the winning run and climaxed a three-run rally for the White Sox.

Pavletich had homered earlier and Ken Harrelson hit his 26th of the year for the Indians. Willie Horton drilled a pair of home runs, driving in four runs and the Tigers stretched their winning streak to six games by beating Seattle.

Don Wert also drove in a pair of runs for the Tigers with a homer and a single and Earl Wilson won his 12th game.

Fritz Peterson won his 14th game with three scoreless innings of relief by Jack Aker nailing down the Yankees' victory over Kansas City. Lou Piniella had a two-run homer for the Royals and Roy White drove in a pair of runs for New York.

Mike Cuellar won his 19th game and ran his record since the All-Star game to 9-1 by beating California for the Orioles. Dick Hall nailed down the victory, rescuing Cuellar from a seventh inning jam and blanking the Angels the rest of the way.

Bobcats Do Remember Ashdown

By RALPH ROUTON
Star Sports Writer

Things fall into place quickly this week for the Hope Bobcats, in anxious anticipation of the opener Friday evening at Ashdown.

You can bet that the Bobcats will be scared to death, too, for they are remembering last year's nightmare 7-0 loss at Hammons Stadium to the same Ashdown team.

A difference this year is that the Ashdown Panthers come highly touted as a sensible pick to repeat as champions of District 7-A. With that goal in mind, Coach Dick Hays' forces should be mentally ready to show their stuff against Hope, with an early showdown at Nashville only next week.

Two-day workouts are over for the Bobcats, and after last Friday's scrimmage Coach Ronnie Higgins, stated that "they know what they have to do now, if we can just do it." The tough workouts of the past few weeks have brought out quite a few surprises to the coaches, and a couple of disappointments.

The offense will run from a pro set similar to the Arkansas Razorbacks, and a good quarterback is the top necessity. Coach Higgins has high hopes for junior Ronnie Massanelli, who this summer built himself up to 170 pounds after playing at 145 last season.

Senior Artis Martin, who started for the 7-1 Yarger team in '68 has fit well into the tailback slot and is well complemented by fullback Gary Jones, a solid 185-pound junior.

Much has to be expected from the offensive line, since blocking is the base to moving the football. Lee Davis, a senior who played at Yarger, tops the depth chart at left end, and he is a fine receiver. David Still returns at the other end, and he is now a strapping 185-pound senior.

The tackles are another pair of seniors, both of whom played last year. Jim Alford actually started as a soph too, and he is a possibility for All-District on defense too. Mike McQueen, a 200-pounder is the other tackle and will be going both ways.

Larry McWilliams and Ronny Brown, still two more seniors, make the guard position solid. Both have a chance at All-District, and both will play at about 185. Junior Randy Wright, termed by Higgins as one of the squad's most improved linemen, is the only non-senior in the starting line.

Soph Tommy Miller, who was running first at flankerback, was the only major casualty of two-a-days with a broken ankle. However, junior Roger Newton has shown up well and will probably start.

That's the first offense, which admittedly looks impressive on paper. But then, our offenses have looked unmatchable for the last few years and none developed.

49ers to Make a Run at Nat'l Title

By DON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers, with a year-long learning process behind them, are now convinced they can make a run at the National Football League title that has so long eluded them.

In their second year under Coach Dick Nolan, the 49ers now feel comfortable under Nolan's complex system and appear solid both on offense and defense.

The biggest thing between the 49ers and the title appears to be their membership in the rugged Coastal Division, which also includes Baltimore and Los Angeles.

Those teams lost only four games between them during the regular season last year and appear to be just about as strong this year. The 49ers, 7-6-1 in 1968, clearly will have to improve if they are to be in contention.

The 49ers' big problem over the years has been the lack of an explosive running attack. Ken Willard, perhaps the top fullback in the league, hopes he can do some breaking away this year as well as powering straight ahead. To that end, he came to camp weighing 222 pounds, 12 less than last year.

The 49ers' passing game, strong last year with Cliff T. McNeil leading the league in receptions, should be even better with highly touted rookies Ted Kwalick and Gene Washington and an unheralded first-year player, Bob Wondolowsky.

The defensive line of Stan Hindman and Bill Belk at the ends, Roland Lakes and Charlie Krueger at the tackles and Kevin Hardy backing up is also strong.

Dave Wilcox and Ed Beard are set at two of the linebacker spots with Harold Hayes appearing to have the best chance of filling the hole left by the retirement of Matt Hazeltine. Rookie Jim Snidebeck will help here too.

Set at defensive backs are Jim Johnson, Kermit Alexander, Al Randolph and Mel Phillips.

The offensive line is also strong. Bruce Bosley is set at center, Elmer Collett and Cas Banaszak at the guards and Len Rohde and Elmer Collett at tackles.

Seven Drivers Are Rated About Even

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP)—Seven drivers were rated about equal favorites today as the 20th running of the Southern 500 stock car race got under way at noon.

The front row starters were Mercury star Cale Yarborough, who won last year, and Dodge's Buddy Baker, son of a three-time winner of the Labor Day classic.

In the next three rows were Ford ace Donnie Allison, David Pearson, Lee Roy Yarborough and Richard Petty. Further back was Bobby Allison, another top Dodge threat.

Richard Brickhouse, a 30-year-old comparative newcomer to NASCAR's rich high-speed Grand National circuit, started eighth in an independently financed Dodge. Observers gave him a good chance of winning.

The 40-car field was the fastest ever put together at Darlington, first big auto racing facility built in the South. The top 30 cars averaged 139.332 miles per hour in time trials.

Marciano Dies in Plane Crash

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Rocky Marciano, the undefeated heavyweight champion who never really learned to box and never really had to, died Sunday night when a light plane crashed in a pasture near here. He would have been 46 today.

The retired knockout king was flying from Chicago to Des Moines, Iowa, with two companions who also were killed when the plane plunged through a low overcast, struck a tree and smashed to earth on a farm near this central Iowa town.

Friends said he had been en route to a birthday party for him at a Des Moines steak house.

Jasper County Sheriff Darrel Hurley said Marciano was found dead in the fuselage of the single-engine Cessna. The bodies of pilot Glenn Belz, 37, and Frank Farrell 23, both of Des Moines, were found amid wreckage that was scattered for 500 feet.

A flight service official at Des Moines said the pilot told him about 9 p.m. he intended to land at Newton but gave no indication of trouble. Hurley said the crash apparently came shortly afterward.

The bodies were taken to a Des Moines Funeral Home.

Affable, modest and clean-living, Marciano was the closest thing to Joe Palooka real boxing ever had. He won all his 49 professional fights—43 by knockouts—and felt sorry afterwards for his opponents.

At 5-feet-11, and about 185 pounds, he was the second-shortest heavyweight champion and the second-lightest. He had the shortest reach of all, 68 inches. Always willing to take a punch for the chance of landing one, he took and gave terrific beatings. It never occurred to him he might lose a fight.

He gave up boxing in April 1956, not quite four years after he won the title from Jersey Joe Walcott. It had been a lonely existence, full of hard weight-watching and separations from his wife Barbara and their daughter.

Last year he recalled: "You look around and you say, 'What do I want—the money or my family?'"

He chose family, took the net from his winnings—$1.7 million before taxes and manager's cut—and went into a variety of businesses and occupations.

He invested in a bowling alley, a construction firm, a boat-building company, real estate and fighters. He tried television performing, nightclub work. He settled in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and became active in civic affairs.

Marciano also tried his hand at many things before turning to boxing: ditchdigging, dishwashing, candy mixing, truck driving. As a boy he dreamed of big-league baseball and the Chicago Cubs gave him a tryout as catcher in 1946. Verdict: good hit, no throw.

He was born Rocco Francis Marchegiano on Sept. 1, 1923, to Italian immigrant parents in Brockton, Mass. He was shy as a child and even a bit delicate.

His ring career started in the Army during World War II. After discharge he boxed as an amateur and persuaded manager Al Weill to take him on as a pro in 1948.

A solidly built athlete, Marciano stood 5 feet 11 and weighed around 185 in the ring. He was the second shortest heavyweight titleholder and the second lightest. Marciano had the shortest reach of any—only 68 inches.

A swarming, brawling sort of fighter, Rocky was always willing to take a punch for the chance of landing one. It never occurred to him that he might lose a fight.

There were many who found fault with his style of boxing, but his sportsmanship record was unsullied. He was sincere, modest, genuinely sorry for the injuries he inflicted on an opponent. His father said, "when he was only 13 he told me he was afraid to hit anybody for fear of hurting him bad."

Liking football and baseball in school, he dreamed of a baseball career. The Chicago Cubs gave him a tryout as a catcher in 1946, but, while he hit well, he couldn't throw to second quickly enough. So he concentrated on boxing.

Marciano married Barbara Cousins of his home town, and he said she and their daughter were his main reasons for retiring in 1956 after a Sept. 21, 1955, fight with Archie Moore—which Marciano won by a knockout in the ninth.

In 1959, he was elected to the boxing Hall of Fame.

At the New Orleans Pop Festival in Prairieville, La., a couple that had been dancing heatedly shucked their clothing, began simulating intercourse, then actually engaged in it. Onlookers pressing forward to latch kept authorities from intervening, and the crush of spectators soon stopped the exhibition.

About 30,000 youths gathered at the dusty Louisiana International Speedway to hear Janis Joplin, Canned Heat, the Grateful Dead and others. Police said about half the crowd was inside the track, where tickets were $6.50 each, and the remainder encamped outside.

Twelve persons were arrested and charged with sale and possession of marijuana. Doctors said about 30 persons were treated for "bad trips" on LSD.

Authorities said the crowd was generally well-behaved. A doctor added, "If we could just get them to wear shoes, we wouldn't have as many cut feet." There is another concert today.

The biggest problem at the Texas International Pop Festival in Lewisville, Tex., which drew 40,000 music enthusiasts, came from motorists who stopped to gawk at nude swimmers.

"It's the sightseers who are causing the problems," said Mayor Sam Houston. He said the swimmers were "real cooperative" in stopping their exhibition.

A massive traffic jam closed roads near Garza-Little Elm Reservoir, as cars parked bumper-to-bumper and drivers ogled long-haired youths splashing about. Other onlookers took to boats and airplanes to watch.

One man died Saturday at the festival, apparently of heat prostration, police said. Hospital officials in Dallas said a 3-year-old girl was being treated for effects of LSD swallowed at the festival and another youth was hospitalized with an apparent LSD overdose after being found lying in the bushes bleeding at the mouth.

Mayor Houston said Sunday night that authorities would crack down on drug users in the area. The Denton County sheriff's office said more than 25 persons had been jailed for various violations of the state's drug possession law.

The festival, at the Dallas International Speedway, ends today.

In Tenino, Wash., about 10,000 youths did their thing at the Sky River Rock Festival and Lighter Than Air Fair as sheriff's deputies kept off the grounds.

"That's not our territory," one officer said. Inside the gate vendors moved through the crowd selling drugs. "I've got acid. I've got mescaline," one seller kept chanting.

Police made an unspecified number of arrests outside the festival on drug charges.

The heavy beat blaring from two bandstands set many couples dancing. Some of them lent topless but got little notice from the music enthusiasts.

"The nudist's not a big thing... they're not trying to be exhibitionists; it's really hot here," a festival worker said. But security guards insisted the dancers get dressed, and they did.

A smaller festival was held Sunday at Saugerties, N.Y., not far from White Lake, where the largest festival in history—more than 400,000 persons—was held two weeks ago.

About 3,000 persons attended the concert, whose star was folk singer Tim Hardin, and paid enough money to meet the court costs of 25 persons arrested on drug charges on their way to the White Lake festival, sponsors said.

North of the border, 4,000 youths jammed the Rockhill Park pop festival in Orangeville, Ont., about 40 miles northwest of Toronto.

Drug overdoses sent many kids stumbling and reeling to a hospital tent. Workers said the youths were taking LSD, amphetamines, opium and hashish.

Crazy Legs Recognized as a Star

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, who became pro football's first flanker and helped revolutionize the sport, has been named to the all-1950s team commemorating the National Football League's 50th anniversary season.

Hirsch was one of the athletes—like Otto Graham and Sam Huff and Gino Marchetti—who brought special talents to the sport in 1950 as it changed from two-way players to offensive and defensive specialists under free substitution.

It is that change that generally is credited with providing the high drama that has given pro football its tremendous gate appeal—and no one is any more a part of that growth than the guy they called Crazy Legs.

He was called that for the way his feet danced behind him when he ran and they carried him into pro football in 1946. Two years later, however, his skull was fractured and the doctors said the Crazy Legs would never run again.

That they were wrong is history. In 1949, Hirsch was back and the Los Angeles Rams, in transition to the modern passing game, often split him wide as a receiver and finally moved him permanently to end—establishing him as the first flanker.

The flankers have done much to provide glamor for the sport, their lithe bodies racing rapidly downfield to haul in a pass, and Hirsch undoubtedly has his place in that development.

In 1951, Hirsch displayed all his talents as he put together one of the finest seasons in NFL history, grabbing 17 touchdown passes and gaining 1,495 yards—a record which still stands today.

Hirsch, and players like him, are saluted by the NFL, in conjunction with Simon and Schuster, by the publishing of a book, "The First Fifty Years," documenting the sport's growth and accentuating it with the selection of an all-star team for each of the first five decades.

The decade teams lead to the selection of an Alltime All-Star team.

Lunn Leads in Hartford Tournament

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Big Bob Lunn, who looks like a linebacker, talks like a deacon and pitted like a demon, had a one stroke lead going into today's final round of the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

The big guy from Sacramento took the lead Sunday with a five-under-par 66 and a 54-hole total of 201.

Howie Johnson and Dave Hill were tied at 20, 11 under par for three rounds on the 6,568-yard, par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course. Johnson had 10 one-putt greens Sunday and carded a remarkable 63, while Hill had a 66.

One stroke farther back at 203 were Dave Stockton, 67, and Gay Brewer, the former Masters champion and second round leader, 69. Deane Beman, 65, and R. H. Skes, 67, had 204s, while Lee Trevino, 68, and Jack Nicklaus, 69, were in a group of five at 205.

Defending champion Billy Casper was seven strokes off the pace at 208 after a 70.

In all, 19 players were within five shots of the lead.

TIEDE

By TOM TIEDE NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There have been recent reports that the world's major military powers have now developed enough chemical and biological weapons to kill every man, woman and child on the globe.

The reports are apparently accurate—but not very likely.

According to officials closest to the United States "gas" warfare program, stockpiles of present deadly chemical and bacterial arms could wipe out the world's population only if everyone—all 3.5 billion of us—were lined up and carefully exposed to correct lethal amounts.

And this, say the officials, is impossible.

"The statistical possibility of germ genocide may make a good news story," says one Defense Department authority, "but that's all it is—a story. No such danger actually exists, by any stretch of the imagination."

Another officer adds this: "Really, I suppose that we could kill everybody in the world with household pesticides—given a chance at reaching everybody with the right amount. As a matter of fact, if we positioned every foot on this planet over a piece of bathtub soap, we might destroy mankind that way."

The point made is clear: Military people feel the simmering national controversy over chemical arms is more emotional than anything else.

The Pentagon is getting "all kinds of nutty questions," says a junior officer in public relations. "Do we have evaporation gas? Do we use germs in Vietnam? Is Army testing poisoning the atmosphere with the bubonic plague? Man, if I get any more of these, I'll take gas myself."

Actually, many military officials feel the current controversy has outgrown its necessity. They say chemical warfare is really not that big in the national defense picture. The total CBW (chemical, biological warfare) budget is a relatively small $350 million a year, a third of which goes for conventional smoke and incendiary weapons. And a top official in the program estimates that "only about 5,000 people are working in this area."

No one is minimizing the possible hazards of CB stockpiling—but there is considerable Pentagon urging for people to "look at the facts."

And the facts, as the Pentagon sees them, are these: Extent. The CB program, simply put, stockpiles lethal, nonlethal and incendiary type weapons. The incendiaries (like napalm) are widely used because U.S. policy exempts them from the Ge-

THOUGHTS

So that through two unchangeable things, in which it is impossible that God should prove false, we who have fled for refuge might have strong encouragement to seize the hope set before us.—Hebrews 6:18.

Even one's yesterdays could not continue to stir and move in a man's mind unless there were a future for those yesterdays to make. Mary Ellen Chase, American author and teacher.

neva ban on gas warfare

The nonlethal chemicals, like tear gas and herbicides, are also widely used, because of the same U.S. policy. As for the lethal CB weapons, the nation has two principal kinds: nerve agents (which kill by suffocation) and bacterial agents (plague, smallpox, tularemia). But none of these lethals has ever been deployed.

Danger. Officials say the number of CB accidents, in the laboratories or in the atmosphere, are very few—and seldom fatal. "I've been in the program 26 years," says one "specialist," "and I can only remember three deaths from CB research." The comparison is that more military people die on the nation's highways every day. And as for transportation of CB materials, the Pentagon insists "strictest precautions" are taken. Major cities are avoided. Decontamination crews are always ready. And, anyway, "there has never been an accidental discharge of chemical agents during shipment."

Need. Military officers say that Russia, as one potential enemy, has "five times the number of CB weapons that we do." They add that most other world military forces stockpile such arms also. The argument, then, as stated by a U.S. strategist, is this: "Suppose we were in a fight with somebody who used germs against us—like North Vietnam. In such a case, if we continued using conventional weapons, we'd lose. So our only alternative would be to retaliate with germs of our own, or nuclear weapons. And if we didn't have the germs, then we'd have to use the nukes—and that's something we never want to do, if we have any other prerogative."

The military's full defense of CB stockpiling is, of course, much more extensive than these few points. But these, officials stress, are primary.

"If we can just get these few points across to the public," says one authority, "maybe some of the complaining will quiet down. I just don't understand it. The whole thing has been blown out of proportion. You know, we don't even manufacture CB weapons any more—we stopped doing it last year. We're just keeping what we have, because that's what our job is—in case the nation ever needs it."

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

Benjamin Franklin would certainly approve of our new Philadelphia minting facility.
It is the world's most efficient money factory, with double the capacity of the old mint and a per unit savings of 15 to 20 per cent in production. For example, until now it was possible for the old mint to produce a maximum of 560 one-cent pieces per minute with their best equipment. Today, the new coin-roller increases this total to 10,000 per minute.

Earlier capabilities restricted the size and weight of the ingots from which coin strips are rolled to a maximum length of five feet, weighing approximately 400 pounds. The new plant can turn out 18-foot ingots, each weighing 6,600 pounds, and each can be rolled to the required thickness five times as fast.

A variety of unique engineering equipment and techniques are incorporated in the new coining process, which was developed by Parsons-Jurden Corp., a subsidiary of the Ralph M. Parsons Co., after a worldwide investigation of metalwork-ing techniques.

This resplendent building, with its pink granite facade
and bronze-tinted glass, covers roughly five acres of ground on Independence Mall, along with Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell. Ben Franklin's grave and the home of Betsy Ross.
It is literally surrounded by history.

Practically everything is open to the public and visitors can witness the entire coining process from the virgin metal to a finished coin from an elevated glass gallery designed to accommodate 2,500 people an hour.

Visiting hours are from 9
a.m. to 3 p.m. every day except Saturdays. Sundays and holidays and a sales counter is available during those hours for anyone wishing to purchase mint medals, coin sets and certain mint publications.

While we are tossing bouquets around for a job well done, let's not overlook the dedicated Bureau of the Mint staff members. Miss Eva Adams, director of the bureau, is fortunate to be surrounded by the devoted personnel I saw during the opening ceremonies. They were like old neighbors in a new home, making sure everyone was properly welcomed and each trying to give more than satisfactory answers to even the most ridiculous questions.

Following a press conference, we were given a conducted tour of the facilities and I was personally escorted through the visitors'
gallery by Abe Schwartz, chief engineer of the mint.
Schwartz was noticeably proud of the production system. I am sure any visitor to the new mint will be equally pleased by the efforts to give us the best circulating medium possible.
